WISEST, UAYs Hosting Conference on Women in Science, Engineering and Technology

In sports it is always useful to have Mo Mentum on your side. So too with respect to the development of a conference. WISEST (a University of Alberta Task Force on Women in Scholarship, Engineering, Science and Technology) and UAYs (University of Alberta Women in Science and Engineering) have recruited that worthy for their "Alberta Conference on Women in Science, Engineering and Technology." Some 4,500 brochures have gone out and registrations for the 11 to 13 May event are mounting. More than 300 people, including female high school students, teachers, undergraduates, graduate students and professional women in the fields of science, engineering and technology, are expected to attend.

Some immediacy is attached to the registration process—the pre-registration deadline is 10 April. The fees are $60 (Professionals), $30 (University, College and High School Students). A barbecue and lunches are included. Single day registration is $25 (banquet extra); $5 for high school students. (Friday, 11 May, is expressly tailored to high school girls interested in careers in science, engineering and technology. One segment of the program is an open forum at which students can ask questions of the visiting speakers.)

Margaret-Ann Armour, Department of Chemistry, says the purpose of the conference is to bring together women in the fields of science, engineering and technology thus providing information, encouragement and stimulation both to students beginning to set their goals and to those who have achieved them.

The theme will be "Steps to a Scientific Career," and the program will include talks by distinguished women, for example, Anna Harrison, President of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; Rose Wheinin, Professor of Microbiology, University of Toronto; Janet Ferguson, Ministry of State for Science and Technology; and Maude Barlow, Senior Adviser on Women's Affairs, Prime Minister's Office.

Workshops, panel discussions, research papers and a careers fair will be prominent throughout the conference. Further details will appear in succeeding issues of Folio.

This is the second conference of its kind in Canada, the first having been held in Vancouver in May 1983.

Sponsors of the conference are the British Council; Esso Resources; this University's Community Special Projects Fund, Academic Women's Association, and Office of the Vice-President (Research); Alberta Advanced Education and the Alberta Department of Education; and the Secretary of State. □

Six Izaak Walton Killam Memorial Prizes have been awarded by the Canada Council and this University can lay claim to having two of the winners. At a reception at University House 27 March, Werner Israel, Physics, (left) received the 1984 Killam Prize and joined the company of Raymond Lemieux, Chemistry. Maureen Forrester, Chairman of the Canada Council (shown here with Jean-Jacques Fortier, Vice-Chairman of the Council), presented Dr. Israel with a cheque in the amount of $50,000, tax free.

English in the Workplace Turns Out First Grads

For many of us, the experience of emigrating to a new country and having to learn its customs and language is something we can only empathize with. But for those who are confronted with the situation it can be a frightening experience. Fortunately, for a number of staffers in Building Services, Werner Larsen, Manager of that unit, has been through the wars, so to speak, and understands the sense of futility felt when one is unable to speak the language and communicate.

Having emigrated from Denmark 27 years ago and travelled throughout Europe and South America, Mr. Larsen was well aware of the frustration which some of his staff experience in the workplace and community. So it was that he helped create "English in the Workplace," a course designed to focus on the functional uses of English, particularly within the workplace. Building Services' staff were asked to identify potential students and forward their selections to Mary Miller, Administrative Assistant, Physical Plant. She then screened the applicants on the basis of need and willingness to be trained. Forty-four trainees were selected and the 15-week course began. Students attended, on their own time, four hours per week of lectures, tutoring and participation in reading, writing, listening comprehension exercises and oral discussions.

The objectives of the program were to assist the employees in being able to communicate better, both verbally and in written form; to teach them specific skills which are important to the employer (proper reporting procedures, understanding instructions, etc.); to make them feel more comfortable in interacting with co-workers and supervisors by increasing their level of confidence in their ability to communicate; to help them become familiar with the Canadian way of life (customs, attitudes, etc.); and to help them become "aware" consumers and be knowledgeable about their rights and responsibilities and the services available to them.

The program was taught on campus through Grant MacEwan Community College which provided two instructors and the necessary audio-visual equipment. Funding was provided by the federal government, and organizers are confident that the course can be offered in the fall.

The majority of the students were female and of Polish, Yugoslavian and Lebanese descent. Their length of time in this country ranged from several months to 20 years.

Weeks of hard work came to a successful completion recently for the 25 students who persevered. They all stood proudly as they accepted their "Certificate of Completion" at graduation ceremonies 28 March. For all of them, this achievement solidified their feelings of belonging to their adopted home. □

Sociology Professor to Receive Two Honorary Degrees

Gordon Hirabayashi, Professor Emeritus, Department of Sociology, will receive two separate honorary degrees at spring convocations. He will receive a Doctor of Humane Letters from Hamline University in St. Paul, Minnesota, 12 April. At that time, he will also give the Putnam Lecture on Social Ethics.

The second doctorate will be awarded by Haverford College in Haverford, Pennsylvania, 21 May.

Professor Hirabayashi is being honored by these two universities for his work in the area of social justice and interpersonal relations. That work comes about as a result of his involvement in cases attempting to do justice to Japanese Americans who were interned in camps during the Second World War. Hirabayashi, himself, was one of those Japanese Americans and, in fact, his case became a landmark Supreme Court ruling. Recently, his current efforts, along with those of Korematsu and Yasui, were profiled on a segment of the U.S. TV News Show, "60 Minutes."

Professor Hirabayashi came to the University of Alberta in

Gordon Hirabayashi

1959, after teaching at the University of Washington, the American University of Beirut, and the American University in Cairo. During his long career in the Department of Sociology he taught a variety of courses, but specialized in the sociological study of ethnic and minority relations and sociology of development. He was the Chairman of the Department of Sociology from 1963 to 1970 and was instrumental in hiring what became the core faculty members of that department. He retired in 1983 but maintains an office in the department and continues his work in ethnic relations and in social justice. □

Engineering Professor Offers Local Area Networks Seminar

Local area networks and their role in scientific, hospital, industrial and computing environments will be discussed 13 April in a one-day seminar presented by D. Zissos of the Department of Electrical Engineering.

The seminar, to take place in 436 Civil/Electrical Engineering Building, should be of interest to technical administrators, managers, engineers, and anyone else interested in learning how the networks can reduce cost and improve performance, and how their specification, design and implementation can be a fairly straightforward task.

Because of the intense nature of the seminar, enrolment is limited. Those interested are asked to call 432-3332 to reserve a place. □

Bernard Snell to Retire

Following 27 years of service, the retirement of Bernard Snell, Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians (FRCP), President and Chief Executive Officer of the University of Alberta Hospitals, was announced 29 March. Dr. Snell's retirement becomes effective 1 August 1984.

In making the announcement, William Astle, Acting Chairman of the University Hospitals Board, said, "The University of Alberta Hospitals, health care professionals and ultimately the people of Alberta will miss the leadership and dedication of a nationally noted administrator, physician and teacher."

"Dr. Snell," he noted, "has been a driving force behind the advancement of the University of Alberta Hospitals from a regional specialist hospital to an internationally recognized teaching referral centre for tertiary care."

Dr. Snell, born in Glasgow, Scotland, was first appointed in 1957 as Assistant Medical Superintendent and was promoted to Medical Superintendent in 1960. In 1966 he accepted the position of Chief Executive Officer.

In addition to his administrative responsibilities at the Hospitals, Dr. Snell served in various positions within the Faculty of Medicine. Currently, he holds the appointment of Clinical Professor, Department of Health Services Administration and Community Health.

Bernard Snell graduated in Medicine from Glasgow, Scotland, in 1943. He received a degree in Public Health Administration from the University of Edinburgh in 1946 and was admitted as a Member of the Royal College of Physicians (Edinburgh) in 1951. He was appointed a Fellow of the College in 1962. He is a Fellow of the American College of Hospital Administrators and a Member of the Faculty of Community Medicine, Royal Colleges of Physicians and Surgeons of the United Kingdom. □

... and be Succeeded by Donald Cramp

Donald A. Cramp, Fellow of the American College of Hospital Administrators, has been appointed President and Chief Executive Officer of the University of Alberta Hospitals effective 1 August 1984.

Mr. Cramp currently holds the joint appointment of Executive Director, Ohio State University Hospitals, and Assistant Vice-President (Health Services) Ohio State University. Prior to this appointment, Mr. Cramp was Executive Director of the University of Louisville Hospital.

After obtaining an undergraduate degree from the Ivey School of Business at the University of Western Ontario in 1960,

Mr. Cramp completed a MSc in Hospital Administration at Columbia University in New York in 1962. Prior to receiving his Master's, he undertook administrative residency programs at Montefiore Hospital and Medical Centre in New York, Thayer Hospital in Maine, and at Kingston General Hospital, Queen's University.

In addition to his administrative responsibilities, Mr. Cramp is currently Assistant Professor, School of Allied Medical Professions, Ohio State University. Previously, he held the appointment of Assistant Professor, School of Medicine, Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio. In 1965 he became a Fellow of the American Public Health Association. □

Furuhata and Brauss to Present Recital

Pianist Helmut Brauss and mezzo-soprano Kuniko Furuhata, former Assistant Professor of Voice at Tokyo's Musashino Academia Musicae, will present a recital 15 April at 8 p.m. in Convocation Hall. Admission is free.

An acknowledged interpreter of the German "Lied", Furuhata has studied in Stuttgart and in Zürich. She has frequently recorded at radio station NHK in Tokyo, and since her arrival in Edmonton, has appeared in several concerts and recorded for CBC.

Helmut Brauss has been du-bed "a poet of the piano" by German critics, and has performed and recorded in Europe, the U.S. and Canada. He devotes himself to the music of Mozart, Beethoven, Brahms and Schumann, although his repertoire ranges from baroque to modern composers, especially Bartók.

The program will include compositions by Paisiello, Donaudy, Schubert (a.o. An Sylvia, Heidenröslein) Wolf (a.o. Er ist's, Begegnung), and Japanese composers (a.o. Oiwake, Sakurayokocho, Tanki Ponki). □

Toastmasters on Lookout for New Members

"Most people get a chance to get up and make a speech maybe 10 times in their whole lives," Bill Quick, Assistant Manager of the Bookstore and Administrative Vice-President of the University Division of Toastmasters, told Folio recently.

At first glance, it is easy to get the impression that Toastmasters is "just another public speaking group." However, upon closer observation, it becomes apparent that members are more than just a collection of loquacious individuals. One of the goals of Toastmasters is to teach and improve communication skills, all the while maintaining an atmosphere of fellowship among members. The club goes beyond the initial teaching phase and encourages members to get involved with other social interests, while projecting a leadership image that is Toastmasters' trademark.

The noon hour meetings in Assiniboia Hall feature "table topics" (impromptu speeches on current events). These are followed by prepared speeches which are timed. The performance of each speaker is then rated and constructive and encouraging criticism is extended.

The University Division of Toastmasters was started a year ago and now has 22 members, including academic staff and students. They meet every Tuesday at noon in the Personnel Training Room of Assiniboia Hall. Membership is $50 for the first year and $25 every year following. New members are always welcome. For further information, telephone Bill Quick, 432-4215, or the club's President, Emma Collins, 432-5245. □

Colonel Blimp, R.I.P.

The 25th offering of the Staff Fitness and Lifestyle Program will be observed 23 April. Starting with a 35-member early morning fitness class in October 1977, the program has grown in size and diversity to the point where 1,000 registrants from staff, students, and alumni are working out. From the basics of jogging and pushups, the program's offerings have broadened to include a full range of fitness activities. Fourteen different Aerobic Dance classes fill every nook and cranny of the Physical Education Complex. Each noon hour some 150 aerobic dancers make the building fairly pulsate.

Aerobic Dance is a popular exercise form which seems to have transcended the fad stage. In Edmonton, the Staff Fitness and Lifestyle Program of the University was one of the leaders in offering this activity in 1979 with Carol Rizzuto as the instructor. Aerobic Dance has hurtled to instant popularity and remains the most widely followed activity in the program. Campus Recreation instructors are all trained in cardio-pulmonary resuscitation and many are graduates of YMCA or YWCA fitness leaders courses. Others hold graduate degrees in Physical Education.

Due to the wide interest in Aerobic Dance, it has been possible to offer classes at a variety of levels and times. This allows a newcomer to select from four levels of intensity ranging from the New Beginner (for people who have not exercised in at least two years) to the Super Advanced (for the very fit).

"Aerobics are for women." "Real men don't do aerobics," you say. Don't be fooled. The Bears (football and soccer), the Oilers, and the Eskimos all use Aerobic Dance as part of their pre-season training. An hour of Aerobic Training with Michelle Polanski and most of the "jocks" are glad to get back into their game. Many men are delighted by the workout they get from Aerobic Dance. Heart rates soar, muscles ache and the perspiration flows.

Another avenue is Macho Aerobics, an aerobic dance class for men and women. Since all the Campus Rec courses are coded the program guarantees not less than a 50-50 ratio of men to women. Kim Hammond of the Psychology Department led Macho Aerobics during the Winter Course. The participants have become so fit that a new course for graduates and other fit people will be started this spring. The name? Macho Plus.

What do you do when you've done your 500th aerobic dance class? Some people just want to boogie on, only harder. The Spring Program will offer a number of new activities for the very fit person. Madame Lillian Ilica, choreographer of the brilliantly staged Universiade '83 opening and closing ceremonies, is offering an Advanced Aerobic Dance course for fit people. Madame Ilica brings a vast background in Modern Olympic Gymnastics and Ethnic Dance to this course which will surely be a challenge to the fit person.

Michelle Polanski, a five-year veteran of thousands of aerobic dance classes, will offer Super Advanced for people who would like the ultimate aerobic dance experience. The Super Advanced class will use light weights and fast action to intrigue and delight a group of very fit people. Polanski's classes have been a source of enjoyment to hundreds of campus people.

In the fall of '83 the University Fencing Club, through Campus Recreation, tentatively offered a course for beginning fencers from among the staff. The response—11 people—was encouraging. In the winter program 12 more enrolled in the course and subsequently joined the Alberta Fencing Association as novice fencers.

At the other end of the activity spectrum are classes designed to help people relax. Relax-ercises, T'ai Chi, and Yoga operate in quiet serenity, oblivious of the puffs and rhythms of the fitness classes. Under the experienced tutelage of Valerie Sherwood-Kennedy, relaxercises help people gain an awareness of their body and the way it moves. By concentrating on gentle movement they are able to relax from within. Forty minutes later they return to work relaxed and tranquil.

Gordon Chan teaches T'ai Chi, an ancient exercise form developed in the Orient. It is not a martial art. On the contrary, T'ai Chi is a gentle system of exercise involving balances and controlled movements that are intriguing and beautiful. The T'ai Chi taught by Mr. Chan is a compilation of many ancient forms developed in China. People improve muscle tone and balance in his classes. After 40 minutes of T'ai Chi they are exercised but not tired, relaxed but not drowsy.

Liz McLeod teaches Iyengar

Yoga, a form noted for its dynamic moves and stretches. She has a very faithful following who have been with her since she joined the Campus Recreation staff in 1980. She has visited the Iyengar Institute in India three times in the past three years and is currently the foremost authority on this yoga form in western Canada. Participants in Iyengar yoga are uniform in their praise of Liz McLeod's work. Her clients here include the Bears' hockey team and over 35 runners who find the improved flexibility helps their performances.

It is no understatement to say that fitness has arrived at the University of Alberta. The jogger is ubiquitous. Bicycle riders vie with automobiles in rush hour traffic and the gyms and swimming pools at the Physical Education Complex, once the preserve of the "Varsity Athlete," are now the playground of hundreds of fit, healthy people. □

Painting the Town Beige is Only Recourse

History has often been witness to man's treacherous nature. Julius Caesar was betrayed by the man he had treated as a son; Jesus Christ was betrayed by one of his own chosen apostles; and Europe was betrayed by Chamberlain.

The AAS:UA negotiating team of Jack Goldberg, Dan Pretzlaff, Don Richards, Peter Heron, and Jim Robb has recently stated that "The negotiating team is pleased to report...." To these esteemed academic colleagues, all honest men, I can only say "Et tu Brutus?"

On Reduced Airfares

- In most cases, the less expensive the airfare, the more restrictive the rules on booking.
- It's usually cheaper to book a return than book two one ways.
- There are many types of airfares available but be careful.
It's often not less expensive to purchase the "budget" fare from New York or Toronto that you saw advertised in the Globe and Mail once you add on exchange rates and cost of meeting the flight.
- You may have to adapt your travel plans and sacrifice some efficiency to fit into the booking rules of budget fares.
- Be concise when asking for airfare price quotes. It's much more difficult to give accurate and economical fare quotes when an agent has few details with which to work.

There are six areas which must be considered carefully when booking flights. They are: advance booking, days of travel, seasons of travel, stopovers,
length of stay, flexibility.

Advance Booking

The least expensive fares, usually charters, require advance booking from 14 days to 30 days.

North America

14 days in advance in most cases although "Seat Sales" require 21 days while a few American fares called "Visit America Fares" require only 7 days in advance.
Many American carriers are now offering "Commuter Fares" which often have no advance booking, just restriction on days of travel.

East and West Europe

The least expensive Charter and Apex fares have advance booking of 21 days.

Other

To Australia, New Zealand (Pacific) and the Orient most of the best fares have advance booking periods of 30 days with a few exceptions to the Orient.

African destinations often require 21 days while South America has some good fares with 14 days in advance. The Near East is one of the few areas where the cheapest fares require no advance booking.

Days of Travel

In some cases, primarily for travel within North America, it's less expensive to fly during the mid-week than the weekend.
Then again, especially with American Commuter Fares, it's least expensive on the weekend.

Seasons of Travel

Most airfares have more than one price level, or season. Generally, the more popular times of year for travel are more expensive, e.g., Florida and Caribbean: Winter is more expensive. Europe and North America: Christmas and summer are more expensive.

Stopovers

Charter fares limit the number of stops that you can make other than your turn around point.

North America

You cannot make stops except by means of a "circle trip" which allows one extra stop but at a higher fare. You may, however, do "open jaw," i.e., land in one city and return from another.

Europe

No stopovers allowed but you can do "open jaws."

Other

To the Pacific and the Orient
there are some excellent fares which allow several stopovers en route.

Length of Stay

With a few exceptions most airfares specify a minimum and maximum number of days that you must stay away.

North America

Most charters require a minimum stay of over the first Saturday night after departure with a maximum stay of two months. Seat sales are 7 days minimum and 30 days maximum.

Europe

Charters require 7 days minimum, 180 days maximum; Apex is 7 days minimum and 2 months maximum.

Other

Orient, Pacific and Near East are more flexible with many fares allowing stays of up to one year, 120 days to the Near East.

Flexibility

As you can see, the inexpensive fares are by their nature, inflexible. Most also have financial penalties for changing or cancelling your reservation once the ticket is issued.

North America

On charters the penalty is $30 or 10% of the fare, which ever is greater, while the Seat Sale is 100% non-refundable.

Europe

Charters have penalties of $100 while APEX is $50.

Other

Except for the Near East, penalities tend to be high. The Pacific and Oriental destinations generally penalize 25% of the fare, while South America usually enforces dollar amounts ranging from $50 to $100.
